Introduction:

The Department of History of Panchthupi Haripada Gouribala College of Murshidabad District organized a workshop on the topic "Increase Awareness on Local History" on 09/12/2022 in collaboration with Murshidabad Zilla Itihas O Sanskriti Charcha Kendra. The workshop aimed to educate students on the importance of local history and to create awareness about the rich cultural heritage of the Murshidabad region. The event was attended by students, faculty members, and history enthusiasts.

Speaker Profile:

1. Dr. Rajarshree Chakraborty is an accomplished Assistant Professor of History at Burdwan University. His work on regional history has made him a prominent voice in the field of history and culture. He previously taught at Krishnanath College in Baharampur and has since become the President of the Murshidabad District History and Culture Discussion Center. Dr. Chakraborty has made numerous contributions to the field of history, having spoken at various seminars on historical topics both within the country and abroad. His focus on discussing regional history is particularly noteworthy, as it has helped bring attention to lesser-known aspects of history that are often overlooked. He has written numerous articles on the subject and has even authored a book. #### Organising committee:

A workshop is an opportunity for people with similar interests to come together to exchange ideas, share knowledge, and learn new things. It's an event that requires careful planning and organization to ensure that everything runs smoothly. The organization committee for this workshop consists of the Convenor, Rebati Ranjan Ojha, and other members, Arijit Kundu, Pampi Siddhanta, and Subir Mondal. These individuals bring a wealth of knowledge and expertise to the table, and they are responsible for overseeing the planning and execution of the workshop. Rebati Ranjan Ojha and Pampi Siddhanta have served as the anchors of the day. Their mastery over their respective fields coupled with their effervescent personalities made them the perfect duo to lead the participants through the day's proceedings with ease and finesse. Subir Mondal and Arijit Kundu, on the other hand, were responsible for conducting other exciting activities that kept the participants engaged and entertained throughout the workshop.

Apart from the committee members, other faculty members from various departments are also involved in this workshop. They have contributed their time and knowledge to make this workshop a success. Their support has been invaluable, and we are grateful for their participation.

Collaborating Organisation:

Murshidabad Zilla Itihas O Sanskriti Charcha Kendra was established in 2012 with the aim of promoting regional history and preserving heritage and tradition. The organization has undertaken several noteworthy initiatives in the past decade, including organizing the only history festival in Bengal, establishing a bust of freedom fighter Pradyot Kumar Roychowdhury in Malihati village, and hosting workshops on heritage restoration and conservation. They have also published 10 books on regional history and played a significant role in establishing a museum named after Rakhaldas Bandyopadhyay in Baharampur city. The organization is continuously working to preserve important heritage and traditions in the district and has gained acceptance among diaspora for its innovative initiatives and activities.

Activities:

- A) Interaction with the students by Principal: Dr. Soma Mukhopadhyay, the Principal has interacted with the students in this workshop about local history of the villages like Panchthupi, Phupra and Burwan. The topic of conversation was the origin of these village names. By learning about the origin of these village names, students gained a deeper understanding of the local history and culture of the area. Exploring the stories behind the names of these villages is an important way to preserve the cultural heritage of these communities for future generations.

B) Lecture by Rajashree Chakraborty:

Dr. Rajashree Chakraborty, a renowned historian, delivered a lecture on the importance of local history. He emphasized the significance of understanding and preserving local history to protect the cultural heritage of a region. He discussed various aspects of the rich history of Murshidabad, including the role of the Nawabs in shaping the region's culture, the influence of British colonization, and the impact of the Indian independence movement. Chakraborty's lecture was informative and engaging, and students were eager to learn more about the region's history.

C) Interaction with Students by Arindam Roy:

Arindam Roy, a local historian and writer, interacted with the students and shared his knowledge and experiences. He discussed various aspects of Murshidabad's history, including its unique architecture, literature, and cultural practices. He also shared his insights on the challenges of preserving local history and the need for more initiatives to raise awareness and protect the region's cultural heritage. The interaction with Arindam Roy was a valuable experience for students, who got to learn from a local expert and gain a deeper understanding of the region's history.

D) Concluding Remarks :

Towards the end of the workshop, Arijit Kundu summarized all the lectures and presented a roadmap for future plans. He emphasized the need to continue organizing such workshops regularly to promote local history and culture. He also suggested the establishment of a local history museum to preserve the rich cultural heritage of the region.

Participation of school students from the nearby areas:

This workshop witnessed the participation of students from two nearby schools, along with their respective teachers. The workshop was an effort to provide the students with a deep understanding of the history and cultural significance of the area they live in.

SWOC Analysis of the workshop:

Strengths:

The workshop was well-organized and had a clear objective of creating awareness about local history. The choice of speakers, Rajashree Chakraborty, and Arindam Roy, was appropriate and added value to the event. The interaction between students and local experts was a unique opportunity for students to learn and engage with local history.

Weaknesses:

The attendance for the event was relatively low, and more efforts could have been made to promote the event and attract a larger audience. The lack of follow-up initiatives to engage students and create more awareness about local history was also a weakness.

Opportunities:

The workshop provided an excellent opportunity to create awareness about local history, and there is a lot of scope for more such initiatives. The event could be used as a launching pad for more extensive initiatives to promote local history and cultural heritage. The interaction with local experts like Arindam Roy can be utilized to create more learning opportunities for students.

Challenges

The lack of interest in local history and cultural heritage among students and the general public is a significant threat to preserving the region's rich heritage. The lack of funding and resources for preserving historical sites and artifacts is also a threat. The current pandemic situation could also pose a threat to organizing such events in the future.

Conclusion

The workshop organized by the Department of History of Panchthupi Haripada Gouribala College Murshidabad was a valuable initiative to create awareness about local history. The lectures by Rajarshree Chakraborty and the interaction with Arindam Roy were informative and engaging. The event provided an excellent opportunity for students to learn from local experts and gain a deeper understanding of the region's history. However, more efforts need to be made to create awareness about local history and cultural heritage and to engage students and the public in preserving the rich cultural heritage of Murshidabad. It can be said that the workshop on local history held at Panchthupi was an important step towards promoting awareness and appreciation of local history and culture. It provided an excellent opportunity for students and teachers to learn and grow together, fostering a sense of community and shared experience.
